Much Soil Carried Into Ocean.
An average of ninety-five tons of soil and loose rock is washed into the ocean every year from every square mile of the United States, according to the geological survey. This estimate does not include the Great Basin.

Atlantic Coast

Summer Resorts

The presence of man-eating sharks on the Atlantic coast as proved by the death of three men and a boy will likely cause the loss of millions on millions of dollars of property. Hundreds of thousands of persons will seek other places for their vacations because they will not want to risk bathing in waters infested by the great white shark and the tiger shark, the two dangerous kinds of the nineteen varieties of sharks.

From Cape Cod to Cape May the effect will be felt. And in that strip of coast there are more costly hotels and pavilions than on any other coast in the world. Million dollar hotels are numerous. It would be impossible without a careful estimate to say just how many have cost this sum. Cape May has at least one. Atlantic City has perhaps a dozen. Long Beach has one. Newport contains private residences worth that much. Long Island is filled with million dollar homes.

Railroads have been built to these resorts and hundreds of trains run to them every day.

The attraction is the salt water bathing. Without that the patronage would be cut in half. Unless protection against the shark is found, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts will be hard hit.

Brief Respite.

"I've borrowed our neighbor's phonograph for this evening." "Giving a party?" "No, but by thunder I'm going to have one quiet evening at home this year."
